PREDICTABLE WORK SCHEDULES

Predictable work schedules give employees advance notice and stability so they can arrange for other commitments including child care, education, and additional employment.

CREATING SECURE SCHEDULING

Workplaces that offer workers secure scheduling have three attributes:

- Advance notice: increase the number of weeks a worker receives notice of their work schedule.
- Increased stability: reduce fluctuation and uncertainty of work hours.
- Schedule control: Allow employees to have input into their work schedule to avoid underemployment or overemployment.

IMPROVE WORK PRODUCTIVITY

- In retail settings, stable scheduling results in both well-being for employees and increased sales for employers.¹
- In food and retail settings, erratic schedules increase turnover.²

Of Kansas parents with children age 5 and younger, 12.6% had to quit a job, not take a job, or greatly change their job because of problems with child care.⁶

WHY IT MATTERS FOR KIDS AND FOR CHILD CARE

- Predictable schedules allow workers with young children to access quality child care and keep family routines and sleep schedules.
- Erratic work schedules can make families ineligible to receive State-provided child care assistance.³
- Parents with unpredictable work schedules are more likely to have complex child care arrangements,⁴ and having multiple child care arrangements is associated with child behavioral problems.⁵

KIDS ARE GOOD BUSINESS

Working parents in Kansas rated “a consistent, predictable work schedule” as “extremely important” to their ability to provide a safe, stable, nurturing environment for their children. Is it important to your employees? You can ask them using the Kids Are Good Business Survey at familyfriendlyks.org.
